This hike is 4.9 miles long and experiences a 1,036 foot gain in elevation. It is accessible all year, and frequented by horse riders. One of the areas where this park truly gleams, is when it comes to wildlife and plantlife. There is an abundance of plant and animal species, unlike other parks in the area. The trail is also well maintained, and one of the lesser traveled trails, making it a perfect place to go if you are seeking solitude. There are also the Vasco Caves nearby, which are truly unique and definitely worth visiting. If you happen to be on this trail and the idea of visiting caves sparks your fancy, you can simply take another trail and get there. Just make sure to bring your camera along, to capture the magical moment.

IMPORTANT: THERE HAVE BEEN MANY COYOTE SIGHTINGS HERE (RELATIVE TO OTHER PARKS), SO PLEASE MAKE SURE TO KEEP YOUR DOG ON A LEASH, AND KEEP A CLOSE EYE ON SMALL CHILDREN. ALSO, IT IS ADVISABLE TO AVOID HIKING DURING DAWN OR DUSK HOURS, THIS IS WHEN COYOTES ARE MOST ACTIVE.
