This trail is one of the more lightly visited trails in the park. That doesn't mean that it doesn't have much to offer, however. The trek will start out very steep, almost shockingly so, but the ascent will only last for approximately 0.85 miles, then you can expect more smooth (albeit relative) sailing. All throughout the hike, you will see beautiful views of the hills (which are golden brown in the summer and fall months, and velvety green in the winter and spring). This trail is exceptionally great for mountain biking enthusiasts, and there is a huge drop at the end of the trail.

IMPORTANT: BE VIGILANT WHEN HIKING, BECAUSE THERE ARE MANY SNAKES THAT HAVE BEEN REPORTED ON THIS TRAIL. OFTEN THEY SUN THEMSELVES, SO MAKE SURE TO LOOK AT THE GROUND IN FRONT OF YOU TO AVOID PROVOKING ANY WILDLIFE. Also, bring sunscreen, as temperatures routinely climb well into the 90s, during summer months.
